

PRINCE THANKFUL HE WAS WOUNDED

Kaiser's Youngest Son Now Eager to Get Back in the Fighting.

JOACHIM TREATS INJURY
AS IF IT WERE A TRIFLE

Shrapnel Ball From Russian Guns
Tore Through His Thigh
During Battle.

BERLIN, September 14, via London, September 15, 7:50 a.m.—The wound of Prince Joachim, the youngest son of Emperor William, is healing rapidly despite the tearing effect of a shrapnel ball through the thigh. The emperor and the surgeons are having considerable trouble in keeping the patient quiet in bed. He wants to get on his feet again, and insists that he ought to be able to rejoin his command at the front in a fortnight.

The prince treats the wound as a trifle. He smilingly greeted an old palace servant whom he had known since childhood with the remark: "Am I not a lucky dog?"

Officer Tells of Incident.

From an officer who was with Prince Joachim when he was wounded the following description of the incident has been obtained:

"It was during the hottest part of the battle, shortly before the Russian resistance was broken, that the prince, who was with the staff as information officer, was dispatched to the firing line to learn how the situation stood. He rode off with Adj. Capt. von Tahlbach, and had to traverse the distance—almost a mile—under a heavy hail of shell and occasional volleys.

"As the Russian artillery was well served and knew all the ranges from previous engagements, the ride was not a particularly pleasant one, but he came through safely and stood talking with the officers when a shrapnel burst in their vicinity. The prince and the adjutant were both hit, the latter receiving a penetrating wound on the leg, but the shot not penetrating.

Danger After Being Wounded.

"To stop and whip out an emergency bandage, which the prince, like every officer and private, carries sewed in the blouse, and bind it around the thigh to check the bleeding was the work of but a moment. It was a long and dangerous task, however, to get him back to the first bandaging station, about a mile to the rear, under fire, and from there he was transported to the advanced hospital at Allenstein, where he remained until he was able to travel.

"Prince Joachim, who was already recommended for the Iron Cross for bravery before Namur, received the decoration shortly before he was wounded. The prince, who has many friends in America, conveyed, through his adjutant, his thanks for assurance of American sympathy and interest."

RUSSIANS IN GERMANY ALLOWED TO GO HOME

Restrictions Placed on Males and Retired Officers—English, French and Belgians May Follow.

ROTTERDAM, September 14, via London, September 15, 7:15 a.m.—Russians residing in Germany have received permission to go home. Males from seventeen to forty-five years of age and active or retired officers are excepted in the order. The return will be effected via Stockholm and special trains have been put at the disposal of those desiring to return. A special bureau has been established for the issuance of the necessary papers.

The return of English, French and Belgian civilians in Germany is not yet permitted, but it is thought that this is merely a matter of a few days, possibly after the Russians have gone home.

LONDON, September 15, 2:45 a.m.—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from The Hague dated Monday says that 500 British subjects composed of women, boys under sixteen and men over fifty-five years of age will be allowed to leave Germany next week, the Dutch and American consuls at Hamburg having arranged for a special train for them.

MACHINE GUNS IN TREES MOWED DOWN AUSTRIANS

LONDON, September 15.—In a dispatch from Copenhagen the correspondent of the Evening News quotes the correspondent of the Berlingske Uebuds, who telegraphs from Austrian headquarters as follows:

"The Russians have done great execution with machine guns mounted in trees. Austrian doctors declare that they are unable to discover any evidence that the Russians are using expanding bullets. The Russian infantrymen are said to fire high owing to the excessive depth of their trenches. Russian scouts are burning houses as a means of signaling their artillery, but charges of brutality have been made against them.

"Vienna is reported as much perturbed by the alarming news brought by refugees from Lemberg, and preparations are being made for the defense of the capital.

SOUTH AFRICAN TROOPS WHIP GERMAN, IS REPORT

LONDON, September 15, 1:02 a.m.—A dispatch from Cape Town to Reuters' Telegram Company says that the 4th South African Mounted Rifles, commanded by Col. Daetson, after two night marches, surprised the German force which had occupied a drift sixty miles from Steinkopf in the Namaqualand. After a sharp skirmish the Germans were compelled to surrender.

Another Cape Town dispatch reports that the action took place at Ramans drift, an important strategic position.

POINTS OUT MISTAKES OF STRATEGY IN WAR

Military Correspondent of Petrograd Paper Criticizes Austro-German Campaign.

PETROGRAD, September 15, 5:27 a.m.—Col. Shumsky, the military correspondent of the Bourse Gazette, in a long criticism of what he terms the joint mistake of Austro-German strategy, the effects of which he says are now being revealed on both fronts, considers that the Galician victory was obtained at an opportune moment, and that the transfer of German troops from the western to the eastern frontier has not attained its object.

Causes of Allies' Victories.

He says it is fair to conclude that the Russian successes on the Austrian front and the Russian movement in east Prussia were the primary causes of the victories of the Anglo-French army. The shocks administered by the Russian army, he declares, have been so powerful that the Germans were obliged to recall a portion of their troops from France, thereby facilitating the French task.

Col. Shumsky thinks that the Germans will attempt to seek consolation in a useless blow which they are striving to deliver in east Prussia, where there are no serious military objectives for decisive operations.

Symptoms of Strange Anaemia.

He says that German strategy is revealing symptoms of a strange anaemia which has always had a fatal issue. The German fleet hitherto has distinguished itself in empty places where there was nothing to fight, and the army in east Prussia, he says, is now engaging in a similar operation.

BRITISH TO DISCLOSE STEPS LEADING TO WAR

LONDON, September 15.—Announcement was made in the house of commons yesterday that copies of the White Paper, containing correspondence on the European crisis which resulted in the war, have been sent to British diplomatic and consular representatives in neutral countries, with instructions that they be translated and given wide circulation.

RADIOGRAPHY USED IN FIELD. Bullets Can Be Located Quickly by Process Used by French.

PARIS, September 15 (4:15 a.m.).—The services of radiography in surgery in the field was shown by radiographic proofs made by Charles Vaillant of the Lariboisiere Hospital, and submitted yesterday to the Academy of Science. The proofs, which were remarkably clear, were obtained by an extra rapid process in from four to six seconds for a wound in the hand, from eight to ten seconds for wounds in the elbow or leg, fifteen seconds for wounds in the shoulder or knee and twenty-five to thirty seconds for wounds in the thigh or thorax. The radiograph can be taken on gelatin paper, and a proof made from it, so that the location of a bullet may be had immediately.

Ship Goes to Port.

While the Germans chattered in excited groups the British visitors sought out the captain on the bridge. After a half hour's suspense the boarders departed and the steamer got under way.

Sinister signs later in the morning nipped any hopes the Germans may have had. Side gangways were made ready for a port call. Lunch was served an hour earlier than customary. As the shores of the mainland appeared after noon, a snaky-looking torpedo boat came streaking through the sea. She flew a British flag. An officer, balancing himself against the ropes as she lay tossing alongside, bawled through a megaphone:

"Have you any Germans aboard?"

"I have many," shouted Capt. Flett, signaling at the same time with his hands fifty, sixty, seventy.

"Follow at half speed!" ordered the torpedo boat commander.

Into the port at Gibraltar he led the Italian and put to sea in search of further prey.

Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Hay of (Boston, Ala. Continuing he says: "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes give rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain which the cause of the trouble has been removed. To answer this purpose Anti-Kamnia Tablets will be found a most convenient and a safe remedy. One tablet every six to ten minutes gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headache of women.

"When we have a patient subject to regular attacks of sick headache we should instruct him to keep his bowels regular, for which nothing is better than 'Actidione,' and when he feels the least sign of an approaching attack he should take two A-K Tablets. Such patients should always be instructed to carry a few Anti-Kamnia Tablets, so as to have them ready for instant use. These tablets are prompt in action, and can be depended on to produce relief in a very few minutes. Ask for A-K Tablets.

Anti-Kamnia Tablets can be obtained at all druggists."
